ing was ever held in Salt Lake City than that at the "housewarming" of the workshops of the Adult blind," in the prettily furnished room at the rear of the Lion house on Thursday night. The entertainment took the form of a reception, many of the blind people, not only of Salt Lake City, but of Ogden and the entire state, having been

The room was elaborately decorated for the occasion. There was a profusion of flowers, and the entertainers were excellent hosts. They were so happy and joyous in their fellowship that afflictions were forgotten and nothing but harmony and happiness prevailed.

No better programme was ever pro-ing a hymn and the blessing of God was invoked by Nels S. Larsen. The was followed by an orchestra playing "Home, Sweet Home." The four members of the orchestra, Messrs. Standing, Fowler, Freeman and Timpson, were a joy to the eye, but the old melody was never rendered with better effect and pathos than it was Thursday night.

Mrs. E. E. Riches then delivered a address on the subject, "Our Work shop." Mrs. Riches is an English woman. She was born in Birmingham, England, and for many years was a educator in the famous school for the blind in that city. She spoke of excellent work that had been done in this city, making special reference to Mrs. J. J. Snider, Mrs. Lucien Olmsted and S. W. Jenkinson, president of the association, for their exertions in behalf of the blind.

two gifted vocalists, Governor Spivey delivered a brief address. He said he was grateful at the beautiful surroundings in which they had met and at the beginning that had been made. He hoped that a larger appropriation would be secured from the next legislature.

than had been obtained from the last assembly; but he was of the belief that the time the next legislature met the members of the workshop would demonstrate that they were about able to take care of themselves. The governor said the gathering that blind had the sympathy of the people of the state. He did not think that the work of the new institution in the city would interfere with the work of the Ogden school for the deaf and blind. He believed that the work of the Salt Lake institution was entirely different and apart from the work of the Ogden school. Governor Spry referred to the excellent work done by Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Snider, Mr. Jenkins and Prof. and Mrs. Talmage and hoped that the good work would

The orchestra then followed with selection. A flute solo by James Stan- ing was next, and then a brief address by President S. W. Jenkinson. Mr. Jenkinson told that in some families in Utah he had found three boys who were American.

are 197 blind persons in the state of Utah today and about 100 of them in Salt Lake City.

A pretty solo was then sung by M. E. L. Riches. Albert Freeman followed with a beautiful violin solo. Then there was an appealing and pathetic recitation by Miss Maude May Beacock; followed by an extremely funny

A duet was then rendered by the Lanes sisters and after a selection by the orchestra the gathering dismissed. But all those who attended will have many happy recollections of the occasion.

GIRL INTERCEPTED AS ABOUT TO LEAVE CH

Thursday, by Judge Alexander McMeister of the juvenile court, for incorrigibility. The girl has been up before the court several times and has always promised to improve her conduct, but has failed to do so. She was cited to appear before the court Thursday, and Wednesday night she attempted to leave the Young, the matron of the court, and prevented from doing so. She had secured employment in Idaho through a local employment agency, which had provided her with transportation, and was intercepted by the juvenile court officer just before she started for the depot to leave the city.
